TikTok was created in order to help users express themselves through visual media such as music and video in a more freeform manner compared to Instagram or Twitter, where users are more confined in how much content they can post without fear of being edited out by their followers. The success of TikTok also lies in its uses as a marketing tool for brands. A study performed by UpStream found that 41% of users on TikTok are engaged with brands and 47% of users follow at least one brand. Some brands are making their own content on the platform such as Coca-Cola, FC Barcelona and others.",

Another article by The Guardian reported that "TikTok's team has a proven track record of transparency — it makes its internal rules public and allows users to report objectionable content. But a separate warning highlighted by the PwC report warns that "zero tolerance policies require that users take action against unacceptable behaviour, which may lead to removal of your account". The policy also outlines what is and isn't acceptable.", TikTok users have the option of recording videos that last up to 15 seconds in length and sharing them with other users within a 24-hour period. The videos can be recorded using either the device's front or back camera and can be edited during recording using features such as filters, text, stickers and drawings. Users can also post comments on other users' videos or add them to their "collection" tabs where they can be replayed or made private at any time.",

TikTok has been criticized for the amount of time it takes for users to upload videos and therefore can affect their ability to generate revenue from them. These issues have been compounded by the company's lack of oversight and a lack of in-app review or moderation tools available for its users. As of May 2021, the app has been criticized for the amount of inappropriate and illegal content shared on its platform and the ease with which users can access this content. TikTok is not monitored by human moderators as Youtube is but relies entirely on machine learning technology to find inappropriate content that violates its terms of service. It has been reported that this method provides overbroad or inappropriate results, as well as false positives.",
